

Governance and Corruption Prevention in Peru: Institutional Challenges, Integrity Policies and Control Mechanisms in Public Management

Journal Title
XX(X):1–1
©The Author(s) 2026
Reprints and permission:
sagepub.co.uk/journalsPermissions.nav
DOI: 10.1177/ToBeAssigned
www.sagepub.com/

SAGE

Abstract

[Unstructured abstract of up to 250 words. State the objective, method (e.g., qualitative documentary review), main findings and conclusion. Do not include undefined abbreviations or citations.]

Keywords

corruption, governance, public integrity, public policy, Peru, public management

Introduction

Context and justification

[Why corruption and governance matter in Peru; relevance for public management.]

Gap in the literature

[What existing studies leave unanswered.]

Objective and research question

[General objective and research question.]

Theoretical framework

Corruption and governance

[Definitions and links between corruption and governance.]

Institutional challenges in Peruvian public management

[Institutional weakness, coordination, capacity and continuity.]

Anti-corruption policies and public integrity

[Policy cycle, integrity approach, and national and international frameworks.]

Prevention and control mechanisms

[Risk management, transparency, accountability, oversight, and reporting channels.]

Methodology

Type of study

[For example, qualitative documentary review.]

Source selection criteria and period

[Databases, keywords, inclusion and exclusion criteria, and years covered.]

Analytical categories

[Dimensions used to analyse the documents.]

Results and discussion

Impact of corruption on governance and public management

[Findings.]

Identified institutional weaknesses

[Findings.]

Existing prevention and control mechanisms and their limitations

[Findings.]

Comparison with the literature and international standards

[Discussion.]

Conclusions and recommendations

[Answer to the research question, limitations, recommendations, and future research.]

References